The witness went on to tell how he ad been insulted by the police and said a had made no complaint to the capalin or at Police Headquarters.

"I left it all in the hands of Mr. onkling. I thought he was the person o attend to it," said Mr. La Fonde.

Thomas E. Flannery, B. Republican quor dealer, testified that last Summer was ordered by several Tammany en in his district to give up supporting Walter H. Bahon, and work for the ammany candidate for Assemblyman. Among the men who approached him zero George Loughlin and Alderman caon. The witness said he refused to apport the Tammany candidate, and ott long afterwards he was indicated for lolation of the excise law.

"The case was called for trial just beore election at Special Sesions, with a to of others. It did not come up till ther election, and then I was discharged though the startfor."

Chairman Lexow began to ask the wit-eas some questions about the manner in which the prosecution of excise cases was conducted, when Mr. Nicoll pro-lessed that the Committee was exceed-ing its powers in trying to cast discredit toon him.

pon him.

"I am not afraid to have my office investigated," he said, "when the Committee gets the proper power from the Legislature to do so."

No further quesetions were asked by the Chairman, and John J. O'Brien, another liquor dealer, of Washington and Perry streets, was called. O'Brien testified that on the morning of last election day Ward Detective Brennan, of the Charles street station, came to him with a marked paster ballot, which he gave me.

"What did he say to you?"
"He said I must vote it."
"Did you take it?"

"Did you take it?"

"Yes."
"O Brien said he was a Tammany man, but had favored Bahan, the independent candidate for Assembly, while the detective wanted him to vote for McDermott, the regular Tammany man. Brennan came right into his saioon and gave him the paster before a lot of people, but he could not remember the names of any of them.

The witness did not vote the paster ticket, and said he thought he still had it in his safe.

L. B. Rafelson, the uncle of Lawyer Raiph Nathan, who ran for Civil Justice on the Republican ticket last Fall, had a dry-goods store in Division street.

"I had a lithograph of my nephew in my window, and about a week before election a policeman came in and told me I must take it down."
"Did you do so?"
"Not by a long shot. They struck the wrong place."
"Do you know the policeman who made this demand?"

made this demand?"
"No. I would not know him now."
Henry Kuster, who voted in Varick etreet, told the Committee that just after he had given his vote to the inspector to deposit the policeman tapped him on the shoulder and told him he had left on the shoulder and told him he had left something in the booth.

He turned around and did not see his vote deposited. He did not know whether his vote had been changed or not. It might have been. The policeman had previously folded the witness's ballots for him in the booth.

Bey. Woodruff Halsey, of 28 Charlton street, pastor of the Spring Street Prespectant Church, voted in the same place at 8 o'clock, and had somewhat the same experience. Wednesday night the saloon of Patrick Fitzgerald, 81 South Sixth street, was broken into, and the contents of the cash drawer, $15.75, taken. The detective who was put on the case ran across a young man named Edward Kearans, of South Sixth street and Wythe avenue, who told him that Malone had endeavored to get him to help rob Fitzgerald's saloon, but he declined to have anything to do with the case.

Acting on this information, the detective arrested Fitzgerald last night.
